

The True All School Program

Learning about relationships and sexuality

Children and young people who receive comprehensive sexuality education and respectful relationships education (inclusive of sexual abuse prevention education) from an early age are more likely to:

- Feel good about themselves
- Understand and accept changes
- Appreciate and accept individual differences
- Are more likely to make informed and responsible sexual decisions later in life
- Are less vulnerable to sexual abuse
- Understand appropriate and inappropriate behaviour
- Talk about their feelings and experiences

Mapped to the Australian National Curriculum

Relationships and sexuality education is an important curriculum responsibility for schools. The True All School program is evidence informed and mapped to the national curriculum for Prep to Year 10. Year 11 & 12 programs support students to develop 21st century skills in line with the Queensland Curriculum & Assessment Authority (QCAA) senior syllabus.

True's approach

True's approach to education involves respectful facilitation, free of discrimination and mindful of the diversity that exists in different relationships and families. All program content and activities are age-appropriate and align with the curriculum.

Flexibility

The All School program can be tailored to address local circumstances.

Leader in relationships and sexuality education

The True All School program is Australia's leading relationships and sexuality education (RSE) program.

The program has been developed for the needs of Australian schools and families, backed by True's 40+ years of experience.
